PROFESSIONAL SUMMARY

With a background spanning from Production Designer to Creative Director, I possess a comprehensive set of tools and perspectives in the design industry. My experience in both local and multinational ad agencies equips me to meticulously execute every creative brief while bringing diverse insights to the table. As a self-taught professional, I understand that design rules are flexible guidelines that foster innovation. I thrive on pushing boundaries, thinking outside the box, and redefining conventions. Proficient in Adobe's design applications, Microsoft Office, and well-versed in traditional and interactive media, I have successfully developed advertising, sales, and marketing materials for renowned companies such as Intel, Microsoft, Verizon, and President Obama's Council on Jobs and Competitiveness. Specializing in B2B marketing campaigns across various mediums, sales enablement, branding, digital design, team management, and client relations, I bring a unique blend of creativity and strategic thinking to every project. As a creative professional with expertise in visual storytelling and brand development, I excel at leading teams to produce compelling visual content that seamlessly aligns with client objectives. Known for fostering collaborative environments and delivering reliable results, I am committed to driving successful project outcomes with flexibility and adaptability.
